Park Air Achieves Highest Standard

Jan. 6, 2020 –Park Air Systems Limited, a Northrop Grumman company, based in Market Deeping is proud to share its achievement of Platinum accreditation for Investors in People. Only 2% of businesses achieve this accreditation, saved for those who excel in the commitment to their employees.

This achievement recognises that policies and practices around supporting people are embedded in every corner of Park Air. In a platinum company, everyone knows they have a part to play in the company doing well, and is always looking for ways to improve.

Paul Devoy, CEO of Investors in People, said: “We’d like to congratulate Park Air Systems Limited. Platinum accreditation on We invest in people is a remarkable effort for any organisation, and places Park Air in fine company with a host of organisations that understand the value of people.”

Ben Palmer, Mission Systems Europe Group Director for Northrop Grumman commented “I congratulate Fiona Thompson and her team at Park Air for this outstanding achievement. An engaged, enthusiastic and committed workforce is the essence of what Northrop Grumman sets out to be, and I’m delighted that the IIP assessors have recognised that with this Platinum Award”.

Park Air has been recognised as a Gold accredited organisation since 2001, and this achievement demonstrates their ongoing commitment to ensuring their employees are part of a class leading company. Providing air traffic communication systems across the globe, Park Air helps airports around the world ensure the safe arrival and departure of over 800,000 passengers every day.

“Our pride in this achievement is shared by each and every employee – it was a true team effort and would not have been possible without the hard work and dedication of every member of staff. We are delighted to display our accreditation and will continue
